The Appreciative Inquiry Summit: Igniting Inspiration, Accelerating Action will show you how.

The Appreciative Inquiry Summit: Igniting Inspiration, Accelerating Action – an online interactive workshop – teaches you how to design and facilitate Appreciative Inquiry Summits. The course takes place in eight consecutive 2.5 hours sessions on Tuesdays from September 12th through October 31st, 2017. It includes live presentations and discussions, video case studies, interactive exercises, and breakout assignments (during and between classes). It offers the same interactive, collaborative, and personal connection typical of Corporation for Positive Change workshops, all from the comfort of your home or workplace. You will learn all you need to make your Appreciative Inquiry Summit a reality.

Pre-requisites: (1) Familiarity with basic Appreciative Inquiry theory and practices, as demonstrated by graduation from The Power of Appreciative Inquiry workshop (formerly known as the Foundations of Appreciative Inquiry), or an equivalent course. An optional pre-conference “refresher” is available at no charge for workshop participants who wish to brush up on their basic Appreciative Inquiry practices. (2) The technical capability to connect to an interactive, internet-based platform. Tech support will be available via phone and email before and during the workshop.

Location: Online, via computer and teleconference

Pre-Work: Minimal preparatory assignments will be sent two weeks prior to the first session.

Corporation for Positive Change Faculty: Appreciative Inquiry pioneer Amanda Trosten-Bloom and master practitioner Barbara Lewis will lead this fun, supportive online learning experience that will forever change the way you work.

When

Tuesdays, 7:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.
Mountain Time

September 12–October 31, 2017

Plan to attend all eight sessions to optimize your learning experience. Classes will be recorded to accommodate minimal but unavoidable scheduling conflicts.
