*You've discovered your organization's strengths and dreamed
your desired future.
Now what?*

From Dream to Design: Organizing for Optimal Performance introduces you to the art of Appreciative Design. Borrowing practices from Appreciative Inquiry, Design Thinking and other transformational approaches, this workshop introduces a five-step process that enables you to leverage your strengths to realize the future you've imagined.

You'll learn how to recreate your systems, structures and processes to make once-extraordinary results everyday and ordinary.

Join leaders from business, non-profit and government for this fourth of five day-long programs, and learn how to design your organization so that success is inevitable.

Workshop Faculty

Amanda Trosten-Bloom is one of the field's foremost Appreciative Inquiry consultants, trainers, authors and speakers. She builds results-oriented partnerships with organizational and community leaders and teams in support of strategic planning, culture change and organizational excellence.

Barbara Lewis is internationally recognized for her award-winning participatory planning initiatives. She masterfully develops creative processes that involve diverse interests in shared visioning, strategic thinking and launching concrete action.
