

Could your organization benefit from:
Enhanced collaboration?
Increased employee engagement?
Heightened creativity?
Aligned action around a shared vision?

The Power of Appreciative Inquiry is your pathway to better results.

Appreciative Inquiry is a proven method for leading positive change in organizations and communities around the world. Countless leaders have taken this workshop and are using Appreciative Inquiry to instill positive change in health care, education, military, business, athletic, community, religious, and government organizations.

This four-day workshop, formerly known as the Foundations of Appreciative Inquiry, will show you how to unleash the power of Appreciative Inquiry to:

- Transform complaints into commitments
- Create an emotionally positive, life affirming organizational culture and leadership style
- Establish ways to enhance collaboration and process improvement
- Create a culture of service excellence
- Engage team members, customers, vendors, and stakeholders in strategic planning and transformation

Learn how Appreciative Inquiry brings out the best and builds energy, focus and momentum for positive change!

Corporation for Positive Change Faculty:

Appreciative Inquiry pioneer Amanda Trosten-Bloom and master practitioner Barbara Lewis will lead this highly engaging learning experience. As co-owners of the Rocky Mountain Center for Positive Change, they use strength-based processes to help individuals, organizations and communities reach their full potential.

All participants will receive a copy of The Power of Appreciative Inquiry, co-authored by Amanda Trosten-Bloom.
